Sarah Baker, eighty-seven years of age, who was found drowned recently at Portsmouth, N. H., was the original of "Patty Pace," in the Lamplighter. The report that a fatal duel had been fought by Dr. Mitchell and E. W. Gantt, in Arkansas, is utterly without foundation, the difficulty having been amicably settled.

which are therein kept in iron closets secured by massive doors.

Yesterday morning, when the workmen went to resume their wonted labors they were surprised to see a good many ecclesiastical vases scattered over the ground. They notified the officers of the church, and the latter instantly discovered the treasury had been entered by burglars and all the golden sacred furniture it contained, and estimated, as I have said, at $160,000 in value, had been carried off. The police were instantly sent for; their investigations led them to the parapet-wall of the quay, and upon leaning over the wall and looking toward the water, they discovered a rope secured in an iron ring above the level of the water. Thinking it probable this rope had been used by the burglars, they entered a boat and attempted to detach it from the iron ring. They found it tightened by an object under water, and pulling it out of the water, they found a large fishing net filled with a great many objects belonging to the treasury, but all of them stripped of their precious stones. The police are now employing divers to search the river bottom.

Condition of the Crops in Ireland.—A gentleman writing from Abbeyfeale County, Limerick, to the Cork Examiner, says: "It is frightful to look at the state of the country in the district from here to Rathkeale this morning, covered with water for the last three days without any intermission. Hay saved, floating; hay cut for the last three weeks, rotten; and hay uncut, lodged and rotting on the ground."

The Cork paper, however, has a more cheering story to tell: "We are glad to be able to say, from our own observation, that in this neighborhood things are in a very much more promising condition. The hay, for instance, has been better saved, and is in fair abundance. The corn has not yet suffered to any serious extent from lodgment. Many fields are ready for the sickle, and some have been already reaped. The great bulk, however, has yet to ripen. With regard to the potato crop there has been a very agreeable disappointment, as the threatened blight has, up to the present, been in some degree checked, and its ravages have proved far less than were anticipated."

It sppears that Mrs. Byford, an aged widow, resident in Friars-street, and an aunt of the bride, went to St. Peter's Church, it is reported, with the purpose of inteferring with the marriage. She stood in front of the railings, waiting for the wedding party to arrive, and was heard to declare, with an imprecation, that she would see the wedding, ritering also, a fearful imprecation on herself it sae didn't, when she suddenly fell down, completely paralyzed, to the ground; and although some ladies who hap-pened to be passing kindly sent for some brandy, and she was taken home in a hand-chaise, and medical assistance immediately procured, she never spoke, but died next morning at three o'clock.

Immense Plundering in Paris Notre Dame
Cathedral Robbed of $160,000.

The Paris correspondent of the Boston

Austria.

Assinsation has lately been caused in the LATER FROM EUROPE. DADED II A NOUNTCE Traveller writes a letter on the 26th ult.,

We are at this moment in a good deal of excitement, in consequence of a successful burglary committed at the metropolitan church, in this city, to the less of the Cathedral of at least 800,000f. ($160,000), and I arai of at least $00,000f. ($160,000), and I speak merely of the pecuniary loss—the moral loss is irreparable.

Every person who has "done" Paris, must have visited the treasury of Notre Dame, which is kept in the vestry-room, for it is one of the shows of Paris. While it is not comparable to the treasuries of Italian and Spanish churches, it is interesting for the Spanish churches, it is interesting; for the visitor sees the gorgeous vestments of the metropolitan clergy at State ceremonies, some of which are historical, and a great variety of ecclesiastical ornaments, crosiers, taper-holders, crosses, etc., in massive gold, down with the second control of the contr adorned with the most precious stones, all of great intrinsic and historical value, and cured by massive doors.

PAINFUL SCENE AT A BRIDAL—Sudden Death of an Enraged Woman.—On the 13th of August, an awful occurrence took place in front of St. Peter's Church, Sudbury, Eawedding, uttering, also, a fearful imprecation on herself if she didn't, when she suddenly

A PROLIFIC AND PROFITABLE PEAR TREE.—
A pear tree on the grounds of Edward Earle, has attracted many visitors the present season, to witness the quantity and beauty of the fruit with which it is loaded. It is just twenty years old from the ground, and, for several successive years, its fruit has netted its proprietor from $25 to $30 a year in the market. It will produce, the present year, judging from a comparison with former years, not less than from fifteen to twenty bushels of very fine fruit. This, at $2 50, which is not an unreasonable price, will net a handnot an unreasonable price, will net a hand-some sum. It is of the Buffum variety

A Well-Known Chass-Player Returns Home.—Mr. Charles H. Stanley, well-known for many years as the best chess-player in the United States, has returned to England, and taken up his residence in Manchester. One of the strongest players in the latter place is Mr. Pindar, who was also a noted chess-man in New York a few years since. Thus brought together once more, these two old acquaintances have been trying their

A sensation has lately been caused in the law courts of Padua by the reading of the last will and testament of Vincenzo Caizavara Pinton. The announcement of its anti-Austrian provisions called forth the unrestrained applause of those present in the court during the reading. The Austrian judge, President Heufler, Procurer-General Hemmerle, and Councillors Pretz and Colle, were in great wrath at the popular demonstration, and Hemmerle could not refrain from muttering, "Only to think that the fellow can't be arrested."

"I declare and make known that if any of my sons, either directly or indirectly, shall serve under the Austrian flag, he is to be disinherited and to forfeit the sum which he would have received after the death of his mother, which sum, in that event, shall be

"I impress it upon my sons, and I impose t upon them as a duty, to be always ready to shed their blood for the independence of Italy—of this blessed and unhappy Italy which I so much loved."

The Effect of a Revolution on a Paris Cape.—The Cafe Durand, on the boulevard opposite the Chausses d'Antin, at Paris, long celebrated for its iees, which were prepared by a well-known Neapolitan artiste, who wears ear-rings, and often nods familiarly to travelers whom he remembers having seen in Naples, is now crowded every evening with a curiously-mixed company. The cafe has for years been the rendezvous of the Neapolitan and other refugees, who, in 1848, were expelled from their country as revolutionists. But lately a hast of Neapolitan Counts, Marquises, Dukes and Princes, who have run away to escape the rising tide of Garibaldi's fortune, have re-inforced the usual habitues. Revolutionists and Royalists now meet together on the common platusual habitues. Revolutionists and Royal-ists now meet together on the common plat-form of their country's ices, if not on a foot-ing of perfect harmony, at least without any outward and manifest repugnance. It is affirmed that a Republican refugee has been seen sipping a tutti frutti at the very same table with a Royalist functionary who some years ago consigned him to the gal-levs.

Model Manner of Settling a Large Estatz.—Seth Thomas, of Plymouth Hollow, Conn., left at the time of his decease, eighteen months ago, property worth from $400,000 to $600,000, and six children, who were his heirs. There was no will, and the estate descended in the legal manner to the children equally. They consulted no lawyers, began no scramble, but mutually agreed upon two judicious men, and employed them to divide the property into six portions, as nearly equal in value as could be. This done, the portions were put at auction among them, each buying a portion, and the premiums again were equally divided. In this way, the lawyers got no fees, the community no scandal, the peace of the family circle was preserved, and an and arrived at, which gratifies every pure sentiment. TRACICAL DEATH OF A DISTINGUISHED ARTIST,—Alex. Gabriel Decamps, the eminent French painter, died on the 22d of August. horse ran with him and dashed him against a tree with such force that he expired in two hours. Decamps was born in 1803. He has gained a high reputation by his pictures of oriental scenery and characteristics and of animals. Among the latter are many paintings of apes, one of which—the "Monkey Connoisseurs"—was intended as a satire on the "Jury" of the Paris Academy. One of his best historical pieces represents the "Defeat of the Cimbri." His style of painting was bold and original, his coloring brilliant, and he was especially happy in presenting strong contrasts in a humorous and picturesque manner. picturesque manner. DEATH OF AN ITALIAN ACTOR,—M. Majeroni, the Italian actor who played in Paris with Madame Ristori, has just died at Turin, at the age of sixty-five. He was the son of a Colonel of Engineers, who directed the construction of the Fort of Malghera at Venics under the First Empire, and himself entered the French service and rose to the rank of Captain in the Fourth Light In-fantry, and was wounded at the battle of Dresden. After the peace he left the army and became actor, dramatic writer and man-POOR CONDITION OF THE CROPS IN ENGLAND. Poor Condition of the Chops in England, A letter dated August 23, written by a gentleman of Philadelphia, now in England, says of the crops: "The English harvest is but half an average crop, quality considered, and this is all that can be realized. Potatoes show blight in every field, from Birmingham and Bristol, and thence to London. Hops

THE SYMPTOMS OF DEATH .- In the Atlantic THE SYMPTOMS OF DEATH.—In the Atlantic Monthly Dr. Holmes paints death thus: "By the stillness of the sharpened features, by the blankness of the tearless eyes, by the fixedness of the smileless mouth, by the deadening tints, by the contracted brow, by the dilating nostril, we know that the soul is soon to leave its mortal tenement, and is already closing up its windows and putting out its fires."

New York, September 13 .- The Asia ha New York, September 13.—The Asia has arrived at her dock.

Nothing important has occurred at Naples or in Calabria. The King remained at Naples. Garibaldi's whole army had reached the main land. The French Embassador had obtained the satisfaction demanded. The Emperor and Empress of the French continued their tour in Savoy. It is reported that Queen Victoria's speech relative to Savoy produced a bad impression in Paris. Permanent French camps are to be established close to the Swiss and German frontiers. Marshals Magnau and Neill made pacific speeches to their respective Councils. The Hourse was firm at 68f.15c.
